VI. Extract of a Letter from Dr. Deidier, concerning an Experiment made with the Bile of Perſons dead of the Plague. Communicated by Dr. Woodward.

WE cauſed two Dogs to ſwallow a pretty large Quantity of the Bile taken from the Bodies of Perſons dead of the Plague.

Upon this the Dogs appeared heavy and melancholy, refuſed their Food, and made Water very often, eſpecially when they were any ways diſturb'd. Their Urine was thick and very fetid, and their groſs Excrements were tinged with the black and greeniſh Bile, which they had ſwallow'd. But in a few Days thoſe Accidents went off, and the Dogs recovered their perfect Health, though they were all the Time confin'd in a Cellar belonging to the Diſpenſary, in company with the other Dogs that we tried our Experiments upon.

Montpelier, April 28. 1722.

VII. So-